Authorization for this examiner's amendment was given in a telephone interview with Robert Traver on 8 December 2004.

The application has been amended as follows:

Claim 1 was rewritten as follows:

1. A portable automatic insulin syringe device adapted to enable an injection of liquid medicine for a prolonged time, comprising:

(a) a blood sugar measuring unit mounted at one side of a pump housing and adapted to measure a blood sugar level of a user; comprising:

(i) a housing having a lamp hole and an insert hole;

(ii) a control panel adapted to control a measuring lamp and to convert a measured value from the measuring lamp into a signal capable of being recognized by the control unit;

(iii) the measuring lamp received in the lamp hole while being outwardly exposed through the lamp hole;

(iv) a measuring probe that fits into the insert hole having a measuring plate for covering the lamp hole behind the measuring probe; and

(v) a fitting protrusion member mounted to the housing in a spring-loaded state adapted to maintain the measuring probe in a fixed position over the lamp hole,

(b) a control unit mounted in the pump housing for controlling the blood sugar measuring unit and a syringe pump wherein a value of the blood sugar level is received by the control unit from the blood sugar measuring unit and wherein the control unit outputs a quantity of insulin and a variation of the value of the blood sugar level from a reference value with a lapse of time; and

(c) a display unit mounted in the pump housing for simultaneously displaying the quantity of insulin dispensed to a user and a variation of the value of the blood sugar level from a reference value with the lapse of time in the form of a graph.

2. The following is an examiner's statement of reasons for allowance: Applicant agreed to amend the claim to incorporate distinguishing features of the invention, as discussed in the remarks filed 7 September 2004.

Any comments considered necessary by applicant must be submitted no later than the payment of the issue fee and, to avoid processing delays, should preferably accompany the issue fee. Such submissions should be clearly labeled "Comments on Statement of Reasons for Allowance."
